David Fryxell, Ph.D. appointed DCLT Executive Director

Julie Early retires September 30th and passes the baton to Dave Fryxell, DCLT's Land Manager and Staff Scientist.

In Julie's words, "From the time Dave arrived at DCLT last summer, I knew he was the perfect next Executive Director of the land trust, and it is time for the next generation to take the reins! I am confident that he will contribute greatly to the advancement of the Trust, and the land conservation community more broadly. Dave knows Dennis well, and brings energy, expertise as an ecologist, vision, and passion for the outdoors. He has been an exceptional colleague, and I truly have enjoyed my time working with him over the past year. DCLT is in good hands!"

Learn more about Dave's vision at our Annual Member Meeting on October 13th at 5 pm. More information to come later this month!

August Notes from the Field

Volunteer day with the NLC

DCLT volunteers carpooled off Cape to remove invasive plants from the Native Land Conservancy's (NLC's) 'Wampanoag Common Lands' property in Kingston, MA.

This joint stewardship day represents the ongoing collaborative partnership between the DCLT and NLC.

Learn more about the 'Wampanoag Common Lands' in recent coverage by the Associated Press, here.

Monitoring Chase Garden Creek

DCLT's first year of water quality monitoring at Chase Garden Creek is almost a wrap!

DCLT intern Charlotte Gebhard (Wellesley College, '24) has assisted Dave Fryxell and DCLT volunteer Gail Hart in collecting water quality samples along the creek. Water samples will be analyzed this October by the Provincetown Center for Coastal Studies.

Check out more volunteer stewardship opportunities at DCLT - contact dfryxell@dennisconservationlandtrust.org

Stay tuned to learn how Chase Garden Creek - not monitored in the past - compares to other tidal creeks across Cape Cod!
