Updates from the DCLT

Notes from the Field

Stewardship day with the NLC

Last week DCLT volunteers carpooled off Cape to remove invasive plants from the Native Land Conservancy's (NLC's) 'Wampanoag Common Lands' property.

This joint stewardship day represents the ongoing collaborative partnership between the DCLT and NLC.

This past December the organizations signed a 'Cultural Respect Easement' to provide and encourage access to DCLT properties for Indigenous cultural practices.

DCLT's D-Y Interns study... ticks!

DCLT interns Sophia Newcomb and Kayly Gleason have worked with DCLT staff throughout summer to sample ticks across town. The goal of their science fair project, part of DCLT's D-Y 'Student Research in Natural Sciences' Program, is to test the tendency of ticks to attach to animal fur versus human clothing, both on and off DCLT's trails throughout town.

So just what is the Rubber Duck Regatta?

 500 small rubber duckies are launched from a boat out in the bay on an incoming tide. The wind blows them ashore ornot at all! Some good natured kayakers are on hand to 'herd' the flock in the right direction. Enjoy a Cape Cod outdoor family fun day. It's free to attend, free to vote for your favorite non-water- decorated Decked Out Duck. New this year, we have added a Children's category, ages 12 and under please.

The Dennis Conservation Land Trust is a non-profit educational, conservation and land preservation organization that is an important contributor to land conservation efforts in the 21 square miles of Dennis. Since its inception in 1988, through collaborative private/town/state efforts, it has been instrumental in preserving more than 1 square mile of special places throughout all 5 villages of the town for the enjoyment of the townspeople, visitors and wildlife. www.DennisConservationLandTrust.org
