To Whom It May Concern,

On August 21st, 2025, the Town of Dennis Conservation Commission met with the Dennis Conservation Land Trust (DCLT) during an executive session. DCLT explained that they have an opportunity to purchase a 12-acre portion of a parcel located at 11 Center Street in Dennis Port that has a conservation restriction held by the Conservation Commission. The conservation restriction is obsolete and in need of updating.

The goal of the purchase would be to connect existing trails from the Town-owned Plashes Conservation Area with this property. This project would require the Town and DCLT amend the conservation restriction to allow for trails and public access. The Conservation Commission members unanimously voted in favor of amending the conservation restriction and enthusiastically supported the idea of working together to develop a trail in the area.

The Conservation Commission and DCLT have a long history of partnering on land protection initiatives across the Town of Dennis. Please accept this as a letter of support from the Conservation Commission for the DCLT's efforts to safeguard this important property.

Sincerely,

Erin Burnham
Director of Natural Resources
